INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the Directory of ZOO's Educator Network, or ZEN. ZEN serves the region of South Asia, covering Afghanistan, Bhutan, Bangladesh, India, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka.

The purpose of the Directory is to assist zoo, wildlife, environmental, animal welfare, and nature educators come to know the how to contact others in their field.

Our educators work for very diverse institutions under a dramatically varied condition. Some are employed and some are volunteers. Some are professionals, e.g. employed as educators while others have other employment in diverse profession but conduct education programmes in their spare time.

Some educators have whole buildings devoted to their craft with Education Centres and a staff of dozens with hundreds of volunteers. Others work alone with barely a desk much less a building to say nothing of a budget, support staff volunteers, or even cooperation from their management.

Because of the diversity of circumstances of wildlife educators in South Asia, Zoo Outreach Organization began catalyzing and then supplementing educational efforts for wildlife education in India. ZOO raises funds from western zoos, wildlife and animal welfare organizations and uses the money to design, print and distribute thousands of items to be used to educate the public in South Asia to be caring for all animals. Due to postage and customs restrictions, zoos in India get most of the benefit of tangible materials but we send material in soft copy by email to educators in other countries. They can use any of the materials they want by printing in their own country. ZOO offers these materials to any organization that wishes to teach people about any aspect of wild animals ... conservation, welfare, protection, etc.

Field biologists use our materials to educate people in their field sites, thus adding value to their fieldwork and building helpful relationships. We hope more of the people in South Asia who want to spread the messages of wildlife conservation and wild animal welfare will take advantage of our services.

If you know others who like to teach about wildlife, tell them about us and tell them to write to us.

With best wishes,

Zoo Outreach Organization (ZOO) &
ZOO's Educator Network (ZEN)

Email: ahasan67@gmail.com

Date of Info: 27.11.2006

Syed is a full time educator and researcher at Dhaka Zoo. His interest is job related for about four years. He has used ZOO/SANIZE educational materials such as placards, poster, animal sketch and photographs and other materials supplied and learned from Zoo Outreach Organisation first on target groups such as graduate and post graduate students related to wildlife and environment from different Universities and Colleges (20 programmes) and currently on groups from 12-18 years, or 6th to 9th standard. Syed has taken the now famous! WCS/ZOO Teachers for Tigers training T4T and its refresher course held in Dhaka Zoo. One of his future plans is to start a zoo and wildlife education club, such as a Tiger Club. He is interested in obtaining newly formulated devices, techniques, concept and materials for fruitful communication to his target groups and sharable things. Dhaka Zoo is the national zoo of Bangladesh, with many visitors throughout the year.

Email: mmorshed_vet@yahoo.com, mm_chy@hotmail.com, chittagongzoo@gmail.com

Date of Info: 11.03.2006

Morshed is an educator because of his job but it is also his hobby. He is keenly interested to learn more about conservation education. He has taken the WCS/ZOO Teachers for Training T4T at Dhaka Zoo in 2006. His plans for education at his zoo are in Animal Biology. He wants help from SANIZE in the way of Conservation education training and necessary printed materials for use in education too. Morshed has designed commissioned production of the most beautiful educational signboards. It is the best feature of the Chittagong zoo and competitive with any in his region.

Faruque, Md. Rayhan

Address: Associate Professor
Dept. of Medicine & Surgery, Chittagong Vet. & Animal Sci. Uni.
Khulshi, Chittagong 4202

Email: rayhan.faruque_1966@yahoo.com

Date of Info: 11.03.2006

Rayhan Faruque is an educator as he teaches the "Zoo and lab. animal medicine" (Theory & Practicals) training course which they offer at the Chittagong Veterinary College. After completion of last TFT workshop, he signed a pledge card and is trying to carry out his commitment to do more teaching about wildlife. The Chittagong Zoo is near his veterinary institute and they have done some practical classes there. They also go to a Safari Park to teach their students, which is 3 hrs away. His future plans are to make people aware about the value of tigers to mankind so that people stop poaching, destroying the forest, etc. He wants to teach the public about endangered species. He loves nature, particularly birds. He is a member of Natural History and Conservation Society of Bangladesh. At his institute there is a "Wildlife Team" of which he is a teacher, that contains 4 veterinarians and 1 nutritionist.

Date of Info: 11.03.2006

Shimona Qazi used to teach in environment and now conservation education is a component at her work. Her experience includes teaching courses in biodiversity, biology for university students and preparing educational materials for conservation sites. She has taken several educator training courses from Zoo Outreach Organisation and participated in a Population and Habitat Viability Assessment workshop as well as an Advanced Workshop in Habitat Ecology education. She is letting her education plans integrate with her life plans for future. She says that T4T gave her a jump start in terms of rethinking strategies for environmental education. From SANIZE and IZE she wants regular updates and developing linkages wildlife conservation community.

Rahman, Zahed Mohammad Malekur

Address: Veterinary Surgeon

Date of Info: 27.11.2006

Malekur's involvement with conservation is job related; he has been interested and working for five years. He conducts educator activities along with wildlife management and veterinary treatment at the Dulahazara Safari Park, a very large open air captive facility a few hours from Dhaka, Bangladesh. He has utilised ZOO/SANIZE materials such as the placards, posters, animal sketch and photographs and other materials supplied. He has also learned techniques from Zoo Outreach Organisation which he uses on his various target groups of University graduates, college students, school students, study tour group and visitors. He has conducted 17 university level programmes and 11 at the school level so far. Malekur has taken the Teachers for Tigers training T4T and its refresher course held in Dhaka Zoo in 2005-6. In future he wants to start a conservation education club. He wants to learn new things from SANIZE including all about newly formulated devices, techniques, concept and materials for fruitful communication to target group. He is particularly interested in electronic devices and says his zoo authority always encourages him for conducting education programmes.

Choden, Sonam

Address: Programme Manager
WWF, Living Himalayas Institute
P.B. No: 210, Thimphu

Phone: 975-2-323528, Mobile: 97517631359

Fax: 975-2-323518

Email: sonamchodn@yahoo.com, schoden@wwfbhutan.org.bt

Date of Info: 28.04.2006

Sonam Choden works as an environmental educator because of her interest in the field. She has been working for the last six years in this field. She is a full time educator but in addition to this job she also looks after other programs such as integrated conservation and development program and protected areas and biological corridors planning and management. She has used Teachers for Tiger manual and support materials developed by ZOO/SANIZE like masks and stickers with participants, which consist of teachers- informal, students- informal (Primary to Higher secondary), local leaders and communities- informal, road workers- informal, and tourists- informal.

Some of the programme she has conducted so far are:

- Workshops on conservation education for protected area staff.
- Training for teachers and park staff on using Teachers for Tigers Manual.
- Community awareness programs on conservation in the protected areas and biological corridors in the country.
- Presentations on conservation and environmental education to teachers students, during seminars and workshops in side and outside the country.

She has also designed and/or translated educational items, e.g. Environmental Education Package for Jigme Singye Wangchuk National Park published in 2003 and the revised Teachers for Tigers manual for Bhutan published in 2005, and she has published the following articles:

- Strengthening Environmental Education in the Protected Areas of Bhutan- Master Report submitted to Griffith University in partial fulfillment of the Masters Degree in Environmental Education in Nov 2003.
- Teachers for Tigers workshop in Bhutan published in the national newspaper Kusensel and the International Education Newsletter published by Wildlife Conservation Society in February 2006.

Sonam is very well trained in environmental education having taken the following courses:

- Master program in environmental education from Griffith University, Queensland, Australis 2002-2003.
- Teachers for Tigers training program at Pench Tiger Reserve and Bhopal, India organised by WCS and Zoo Outreach Organisation in June 2004.
- Environmental Education Fellows training at Bronx Zoo, New York in April 2005, organised by International Education Division, Wildlife Conservation Society.
- Teachers for Tigers and Habitat Ecology Learning Program Assessment workshop at Coimbatore, India in April 2006 organised by International Education Division, Wildlife Conservation Society, Zoo Outreach Organisation.

Sonam wants to develop a full fledged park education program for schools which is integrated into the school curriculum. She needs materials from the IZE and SANIZE network such as education resource materials on wildlife, biodiversity, conservation and related topics. Information on training programs and seminars in the field of conservation education. Access to best practices in conservation education programs initiated in other countries and lessons learned. Sonam's problems in carrying out her aims are designing appropriate programs for the target audiences and the lack of funds and skills required to implement programs that are relevant and cost effective.

Date of Info: 29.08.2005

Amit is working as a conservation educator as a paid job, but his interest is also at personal level. It started as a hobby, now turned into a job. He has conducted many conservation education programmes for last many years.

Associated with Indian Herpetological Society - Snake awareness.

Working with BNHS.

Associated with Zoo Outreach Organization & WCS, USA.

His future plans involve conservation. He can work individually or join hands with NGOs with their existing network, infrastructure, data base and facilities that NGO's have. He feels that compulsion of the EVS as a subject in the syllabus in India has provided a forum for conservation education, which must be used extensively. A network of educators should be created. In order to encourage youth towards the conservation education, the international networks must come forward to promote EE as a strong career option for the students of biology. A wide market for the educators should be created which will encourage the graduates, post graduates and others to think of the EE beyond hobby and volunteerism.

Amit wants help with a series of Teachers Training Workshops for 500 Sec. School teachers based on EVS syllabus. In order to develop capacities of teachers to teach EVS effectively, they will be informed about the various non formal methods in EE and the facilities available around them. These will be 1/2/3 day workshops consisting field visits, interactions & material distribution. The requirements are equipment, material, transport, food & administration.

Amit Khaire comes from a wildlife family. They have been into conservation education for a long time, which gives him a strong background however it is not job related. He has given slide shows, talk shows in schools, colleges & corporates about conservation, initiated the anti-plastic drive at Sinhagad fort & successfully installed 10 dustbins on the historic fort. Similar drives conducted at Taljai & surrounding hills. His future education ambitions are to teach the importance of conservation in their own & the surrounding life through awareness about the environment. He believes ZEN can help by providing the educative material that could be downloaded to the masses which would have a greater impact than just the word of mouth.

Marimuthu says that even though his interest in wildlife education is job related, he has fullest satisfaction when conducting conservation education activities for children. He had attended two international training courses on Environmental Education. He was involved in ZOO education activities from 1990-1994 then after a break continued the same thing since July 2004-till now. As stated in WZACS, the aim of conservation education in Zoos is to interpret living collections to attract, inspire and enable people to act positively for conservation. Educators need to develop linkages with a wide variety of institutions, establish networks like ZEN. Now the time has come.

Date of Info: 12.09.2005

Payal Molur is a wildlife educator by choice and has formed her own organisation to develop wildlife educational material as well to spread awareness about wildlife. She has been interested in wildlife since the age of 18 but began working in this field when she was 22. She is a full-time educator. She has used almost all the packets designed by ZOO: primates, zoo patrol, amphibian, daily life wildlife, dare to care for bears, bats, abc of animals, vulture culture, gharials etc. She has also contributed to the designing of many of these packets. Her favourite target groups are children between the age of 10-13 years & teachers. She has conducted the following programmes:

- Teacher training programs for several schools in Coimbatore, Bangalore, Delhi.
- "Teachers for Tigers" program since its inception 3 years ago - 11 workshops.
- Pablo Python Teacher training workshop
- HELP workshop for teachers
- Wildlife club in Coimbatore school, Coorg school
- Primarily primate programmes in schools.

She has assisted ZOO with Bat club materials, Amphibian packet, Primate packets, People for primate manual, additions to Teachers for Tiger manual. Educational slides for Go Wild Workshop (an f5 initiative) and published several articles on various educational programmes in Zoos Print magazine. Her experience in conservation education training is:

- Educator training course "Teachers for Tigers" in Chennai 2003.
- Educator training course at WCS Bronx Zoo in 2003.
- Educator refresher course at Annaikatty in 2006.

Future plans include several programs in schools in as many places as possible and developing more materials to suit the Indian mindset and to help spread awareness of conservation for animals found in South Asia in particular. She wants more educational materials that can be used for Teachers Training. She hopes ZEN can help in the challenge of raising funds to help take the programmes to as many schools as possible.

Payal Narain believes that in the long term it is the mindset of the future generation of policy makers that will set aside conservation areas for posterity, leading to protection of biodiversity in India and the rest of the world. Wildlife education is both job related and also her full time interest. Payal has used Zoo Outreach information kits in 2006 year during Wildlife Week (4 Programmes) and also used the Teachers manual for Tiger conservation previously (In parts during 2004, 2005 & 2006). At present her target group is school children mainly from English medium schools, from class III-XII (Age 9 to 17) with programmes conducted at an informal level. She has also taught village school children in the Sundarbans area and Gujjar children in the resettlement colonies. She has taught following wildlife programmes so far:

Schools visiting the crocodile bank (MCBT) periodically including the schools invited during Wildlife Week.
Village school children in and around Bali island in the Sundarbans with the help of a multi-media education kit. Also holding small essay writing & drawing competitions with a wildlife/environment conservation theme.
School children in the Gaidikhata Gujjar resettlement colony adjacent to Rajaji National Park.

Her future plan is to contribute to the changed mindset of the future generation of policy makers that will set aside conservation areas for posterity, leading to protection of biodiversity in India and the world. This can only happen through education formal and informal. Payal would like to compile stories from Indian mythology and folk tales which show the peaceful and happy coexistence of animals and humans. Also to use images of animals deified in India (As a god, or the vehicle of a god), as a tool for protection in the form of posters, calendars, postcards, greeting cards, etc. Would like to do stories with a wildlife theme, using cartoon characters, since comics and cartoon films are greatly enjoyed by youngsters (As well as adults). She also like to actually take groups of children or adults to conservation areas to teach them to appreciate such places and realise the importance of saving wildlife and the habitat. Payal wants good practical knowledge of effective tools that can be used to spread conservation awareness mainly in rural areas. Information on conservation education courses conducted and tools. She also wants help raising funds I specifically for wildlife conservation educational programmes.

Pogiri has been involved in environmental education about reptiles, biodiversity and rainwater harvesting are the main interests in conservation education as a profession for many years. He has worked as the EO at MCBT for three years and conducted several camps, workshops, interactive sessions through slide and video shows for school and college students, herpetologists, forest officials etc. He worked as the herp consultant for Pilikula Biological park, Mangalore and have conducted several programmes. Currently working with ARRS as the researcher and EEO on King cobra conservation project. This includes rescue and rehabilitation and following up with education programmes for schools, villages and local clubs. His future plans are to help laypersons to connect to where they belong-Nature. Enable them to learn, appreciate and understand the importance of biodiversity and to awaken them to the realities about the dwindling natural resources.

Pogiri's employer is ARRS which is a new research station set up in the western ghats. They welcome researchers, biologists etc to carryout the research work at the base. They have already started our Env. Education Programmes in and around Shimoga and Udupi districts and has been very well received. He and his colleagues look forward to participate in ZOO and ZEN education training camps and request a supply of the education materials for their programmes.

He has conducted in-house activities in which visitors of the zoo park were briefed about conservation initiatives and its importance. In his three years tenure many in house and outreach materials have been designed and published. His zoo has a small interpretation room for purpose of education. There is a classroom for outreach and in house education. He wants to teach conservation of rare flora and fauna of Eastern ghats. Biodiversity Conservation, processes and functions of ecosystem, species extinction and repercussions, tangible and intangible benefits, landscape approaches and corridors, genetic introgression, famines and causes. He would like to share some ecogames to enlist public support for cause of conservation which are being used at his zoo with available financial and human resources. He wants a supply of education material and visual aids etc...from ZEN. Both Technical and financial input are needed to upgrade the facility at zoo, besides education material, training etc..., he says.

Date of Info: 28.04.2006

Rachana Shah loves wildlife and educating others about its importance, since our children and the people know only little about it. Though being a science student she knew little about its value in life, but the conservation education opened my eyes and has drove her to teach more people about it. She wants to educate people about the basic conservation issues and wildlife. At present she is the only trained educator in Central zoo but if my colleagues get a training through this network it will help me more in my work. She would like to be updated by all the news related with wildlife at the same time about the CE efforts of other areas.

Jini Dela is a primate biologist who is also an educator. She has participated in:

- Designing and conducting teachers training programme
- Community education
- Special education & communication for threatened species
- Teachers planning communication for environmental plan / project.
- Teaching Biodiversity to University students.

Her future plans are to communicate environmental conservation concepts to people to create a behavioral change. She would like to utilise her SANIZE membership in sharing experience, education materials and networking and helping to identify possible funds for EE in Sri Lanka and when possible to join such venture. She would like assistance with customised material preparation by sharing available materials and would duly acknowledge the donors.
